

III. II. A, B.

- a twin brothers b discretion c narcotic medicines
d gaunt e lethargy f prodigious strength
g vassal h scraps of paper i presentiment
j credulity
- 2 I was anxious not to compromise others on my account.
3 I was equal to the task I had set myself.
4 My memory is circumstantial and unshaken.
5 I could not but comply.
6 "She has a husband, a father, and a brother?"
" a brother."
" I do not address her brother."
" No."
7 The wound was a sword thrust, received from twenty to twenty-four ~~to~~ hours before, but no skill could have saved him if it had been looked to without delay.
8 It was then that I knew her condition to be that of one in whom the first expectations of being a mother have arisen.
9 How proud the boast, its warlike glory
Fills such a page in British story,
And from old England's early date,
Blazon'd her fame and made her great;
When the stern Henries bravely fought;
When the brave Edwards sternly fought,
On martial plains, well-earn'd renown,
And with the laurel deck'd their crown.

明治三十七年三月第二学期試験問題 (第一高等学校「」受持)

Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.