

Works:

1. Mildred Vernon: He (Gaston) behaves cruelly to Mildred but the world should believe he has acted shabbily to Olympe. He bears his faith but he should be supposed to have stained his honour. With his whole heart & soul bound up in one woman he goes to another & deals with another & plights other his exclusive devotion & his eternal tin. drives. He professes the reality to the appearance of doing wrong & acting falsely.

2. Lionie Vermont a picture of happiness abandoned & love trampled under foot in obedience to misty & crossed notions of what honour & dignity require.

3. Kathie Bräde. another tale of in judicious & unkind because self-considering self-sacrifice.

4. Framleigh Hall

Grenville betrothed to his cousin Eugenia

Isabella sister to G.

Eugenia loved by Maurice

a fine, good gentleman.

Isabella persuades Eugenia to forsake Eugenia & sacrifice herself for her brother. Eugenia consents & complies with the request & marries a man from whom no happiness can be expected.

1st part Laureate John Keel
in the reign of Henry Edward IV.

1517. Fox, Bishop of Winchester, founded a college at Oxford in which he constituted with competent stipends, two professors
for Greek & Latin

novels read is passive work going impressive

False Morality of Lady novelists: sug.

1. False notions of honour
2. Egotistical notions of self-sacrifice
3. Limpid notions of compassion
4. Distorted notions of the relative enormity of various failings & offences

How men love their women:

He (Francis) slept so badly, after this effort of self-denial (giving up the habit of smoking), for want of the composing effect of the tobacco which he was used to & came down morning after morning, looking so haggard and worn that Miss Rachel herself begged him to take to his cigar again! (Miss Rachel)

Social Condition:

"We are all getting liberal now; and (provided you can scratch me, if I scratch you) what do I care, in or out of Parliament, whether you are a hushman or a nurse? That's the modern way of looking at it - and I keep up with the modern way."

" (Scott's Remarks upon Pamela.)

"But in Richardson's time, the bonds of subordination in society were drawn very strictly & he himself appears to have had high & exaggerated opinion ideas of importance of wealth and rank as well as of domestic authority of every kind."

Eros

Lady Charlotte Porley afterwards Lady Charlotte Bacon, second daughter of the Earl of Oxford, in the autumn of 1812, when these lines were addressed to her, had not completed her thirteenth year.

Robert Bunsen

William Fletcher

libertine school of Cyrene founded by Aristippus about B.C. 370. He identified the chief good with pleasure.