Globe 8vo. 3/6

Summer in Arcady

A Tale of Nature.

Globe 8vo. 3/6

DAILY TELEGRAPH.—"Overflowing with life, rich in perfume, warm and irresistible."

Crown 8vo. Price 6/- each.

A Kentucky Cardinal and Aftermath

In one vol. Illustrated by HUGH THOMSON. (Cranford Series.)

OUTLOOK.—"His work has purity, delicacy and unflinching charm. He gives you matter for laughter, matter for tears, and matter to think upon, with a very fine hand."

Flute and Violin

And other Kentucky Tales and Romances.

The Blue-Grass Region of Kentucky

And other Kentucky Articles.

SPECTATOR.—"The volume of Kentucky tales collected under the title of Flute and Violin, though issued a few years ago in America, is practically a new book so far as English readers are concerned, and as such deserves the attention due to whatever falls from the pen which gave us The Choir Invisible."

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—"These volumes are worthy of the author of The Choir Invisible."

THE WORKS OF JAMES LANE ALLEN

"We are glad to see that the fine work of Mr. JAMES LANE ALLEN in fiction is likely to be better known in this country than hitherto."—The Academy.

[130th Thousand]
 Crown 8vo, Gilt top. Price 6/-

The Increasing Purpose

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.—"Such a book as this is a rare event, and as refreshing as it is rare. This book . . . is a beautiful one—beautiful alike in thought, tone, and language."

LITERATURE.—"We may safely assert that it will achieve a large success, and achieve it on its merits."

DAILY CHRONICLE.—"We like this book. It stands apart from the ordinary novel. It tells the story of the growth of a soul. . . . A great charm of the book is its pictures of out-door life on a Kentucky farm. . . . But the greatest charm of all, perhaps, is Mr. Allen's clear-cut, simple, and vigorous style."

SPECTATOR.—"Written with all the delicacy and distinction which have already won him so many admirers."

WORLD.—"Lays upon the reader a grip from which there is no escape."

DAILY GRAPHIC.—"The character of David, the first figure in the book, is finely drawn. . . . The book is well worth reading."

ACADEMY.—"Full of racial warmth and freshest human nature. . . . Life is intense, richly coloured, and splendidly aspirant in these pages; yet the eternal note of sadness is brought in."

[223rd Thousand]
 Globe 8vo. 6/-

The Choir Invisible

ACADEMY.—"A book to read, and a book to keep after reading. Mr. Allen's gifts are many—a style pellucid and picturesque, a vivid and disciplined power of characterization, and an intimate knowledge of a striking epoch and an alluring country. The Choir Invisible is a fine achievement."

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—"Mr. Allen's power of character drawing invests the old, old story with renewed and absorbing interest. . . . The fascination of the story lies in great part in Mr. Allen's graceful and vivid style."
