MACMILLAN'S
POPULAR
SIX-SHILLING
NOVELS

The Increasing
Purpose

By JAMES LANE ALLEN, Author of
"The Choir Invisible" (213th Thousand)

'Yet I doubt not through the ages one
Increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widened
With the process of the suns.'

—TENNYSON

The Bath Comedy

By AGNES and EGBERTON CASTLE,
Authors of "The Pride of Jennico"
(47th Thousand)

SPECTATOR.—"A very lively and entertaining comedy."

ATHENÆUM.—"A very brisk and lively comedy in narrative."

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.—"One of the most refreshing and mirthful novels we have read for a long time."

Babes in the Bush

By ROLF BOLDREWOOD, Author of
"Robbery under Arms," etc.

THE OUTLOOK.—"A lively and picturesque story."

DAILY TELEGRAPH.—"Bristles with thrilling incident."

The Enchanter

By UNA L. SILBERRAD

Mr. QUILLER COUCH, in THE ACADEMY.—"A really fine story—fresh, original and strong."

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—"An eminently readable and cleverly written book with much of the root of the matter in it.
An author who can really stir us with excitement . . . One who can conceive real and striking characters."

Via Crucis

By F. MARION CRAWFORD

75th Thousand

DAILY TELEGRAPH.—"Most picturesque and original."

THE WORLD.—"A beautiful story."

Young April

By EGERTON CASTLE

THE SPECTATOR.—"A gay and gallant story."

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.—"A breezy and delicately-graceful tale."

Miranda of the Balcony

By A. E. W. MASON

LITERATURE.—"The strongest book Mr. Mason has given us."

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.—"We are held at the finest edge of attention from first to last."

The Cambric Mask

By R. W. CHAMBERS

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.—"Mr. R. W. Chambers is in most respects an admirable writer. He has style and originality, he sees vividly, goes straight to his point, and dispenses with all tedious and irrelevant matter."

A spirited and stirring story."

Valda Hânem

The Romance of a Turkish Harim

By DAISY HUGH PRYCE

THE SPECTATOR.—"Very charming."

THE GUARDIAN.—"Miss Pryce tells her story well. The eastern surroundings and life are made thoroughly interesting."

Donna Teresa

By F. M. PEARD

SPECTATOR.—"A charmingly written story."

DAILY NEWS.—"A touching and original story with a picturesque setting."

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.—"A fine and restrained piece of work."
